In celebration of the 123rd Philippine Civil Service Anniversary, faculty and non-teaching staff at Pangasinan State University's Urdaneta Campus came together for a tree planting activity. This initiative aligns with the goals of SDG 13, "Climate Action," by contributing to reforestation and promoting environmental stewardship.

➤ The CLAYGO Revolution at PSU Lingayen Campus - Nurturing Responsible Citizens and a Greener Tomorrow

Pangasinan State University Lingayen Campus, under the leadership of Campus Executive Director Dr. Renato E. Salcedo, has championed the "Clean As You Go" (CLAYGO) campaign as a core component of its sustainability initiatives, fostering environmental consciousness among students. Through Dr. Salcedo's efforts, CLAYGO principles are integrated into academic courses, enabling students to understand both the theoretical and practical aspects of waste management and sustainable practices. Spearheaded by the student-led Environmentalist Club, students actively participate in initiatives such as creating campaign signages, going beyond routine cleanliness to embody principles of environmental stewardship. This engagement not only improves campus cleanliness but also instills a lasting commitment to environmental responsibility, positioning PSU Lingayen as a model for sustainable practices.
